Moreover, integrating traditional Indian knowledge and practices into the curriculum fosters a deeper understanding and appreciation of the nation's diverse cultural heritage. It empowers students to appreciate India's contributions to various fields like science, mathematics, medicine, and philosophy.

This holistic approach to education helps nurture well-rounded individuals with a strong grounding in their cultural identity, while also equipping them with the skills and knowledge to thrive in the modern world. 6.4 - Financial Management and Resource Mobilization

6.4.1 - Institution conducts internal and external financial audits regularly Enumerate the various internal and external financial audits carried out during the year with the mechanism for settling audit objections within a maximum of 200 words

Throughout the year, our institution conducts both internal and external financial audits to ensure transparency, accountability, and adherence to financial regulations. Internal audits are carried out by an independent internal audit team within the institution. They review financial transactions, processes, and controls to identify any discrepancies or potential risks. The internal auditors assess the effectiveness of internal financial management systems and make recommendations for improvement.

Externally, the institution undergoes financial audits conducted by external auditors who are independent of the institution. These audits are typically performed by certified public accounting firms. External auditors thoroughly examine the institution's financial statements, records, and practices to provide an unbiased assessment of its financial health and compliance with accounting principles and legal requirements.

The mechanism for settling audit objections involves a structured process. Once audit reports are generated, any identified objections or discrepancies are communicated to the institution's management. The management then conducts an internal review to understand the issues raised and formulates appropriate responses. These responses are submitted to the auditors for consideration. If any disagreements arise, constructive dialogues between the management and the auditors take place to resolve the concerns.

The institution places significant importance on addressing audit objections promptly and efficiently. This commitment to resolving audit issues reinforces the institution's financial integrity and fosters trust among stakeholders, including students, staff, and external partners. Regular internal and external audits play a crucial role in maintaining financial discipline and upholding the institution's reputation for sound financial management.
